FRONTLINE WORKERS' TRAINING PROGRAM -

As one of its flagship programs, Reckitt Benckiser - a British MNC - collaborated with Wipro GE Healthcare India and Dettol Banega Swasth India launched a training program for frontline health workers in the state (as well as Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh), with on-ground support from Jagran Pehel and Plan India. Participants were trained on best practices in hygiene and infection control, DIY tools (for making masks and hand sanitizers), recommendations for home isolation and quarantine, busting COVID-related myths and misconceptions and promoting overall mental health. Insurance benefits were provided to personnel working on the frontline for tackling COVID. A sum of Rs. 1000 each was transferred to the accounts of 1 Lakh laborers in the State. Training was imparted through a digital Learning Management System including videos, quizzes and reading materials.
